The assistance of a Penn State York Advisory Board grant allowed me a course release during the fall semester of 2015.

With this extra time, I drafted several dozen poems. Some have already been completed and, in a few cases, published. (And looking ahead, I have more than 20 poems accepted by journals, magazines, or anthologies that should go to press before the end of the calendar year.)

Other pieces begun during fall 2015 will be refined during the upcoming summer months and subsequently submitted to publishers in fall. All of these works will eventually become part of my next full-length collection.

Thank you for supporting my creative activity.

Respectfully submitted,

NS
